

Wilderness Landmarks (d100)

1	Weaker stone eroded away, leaving behind an impressive Arching Formation	51	Fractured and Abandoned, a round Millstone lies covered with overgrowth
2	Almost like Paving Stones, the limestone here cracks in uniform tessellations	52	Nearly every surface here is coated in harmless chartreuse Spores and red Molds
3	Alabaster Karsts jut from the land here, softer stones eroded away by rainfall	53	Millions of pebbles, gathered by diligent Ants have been stacked in a high Mound
4	Bristling with Pines, a wide Hogback Ridge resembles it's namesake when angry	54	Rudely gurgling, Bubbles of milky Mud sizzle and Pop among dark puddles
5	Narrow Headland pierces a large Lake, one defiant Holybranch sprouts at the end	55	Piercing the sky, the dulled tip of a Weathered Obelisk about eight men high
6	It only takes a slight Breeze to produce a strange Keening sound in the Rocks here	56	Rotting in place, an old Palisade of Sharpened Stakes leans on itself
7	Pile of Stone Sacks, completely Petrified potentially along with whatever they contained	57	Even the Clouds don't seem to dare to summit a distant Peak, painted in snow
8	Purpose long lost in the Mists of Time: Area is peppered with Perfect Stone Spheres	58	Ancients incised deep Spiral Grooves in the Boulders here that moss highlights
9	Ghostly memories of a Woeful Time: Spectral Vultures circle here perpetually	59	Graven with Holy Symbols, a Rectangular Waymarker of Stone guided Pilgrims
10	Vines with soft violet rimmed flowers have colonized a fallen Trunk here	60	Brimming with Debris, whatever dug this Pit long ago is nowhere to be seen
11	Tailings from a nearby Spent Mine mar the lush Vegetation that grows here	61	Clotted with vibrant green pearls of Duckweed: A shallow tannin stained pond
12	Crumbling and resembling a Gap-Toothed Smile, a waist-high Stone Wall	62	Clear water from a Spring appears to have found a home in this stone-lined Pool
13	You'd hate to see the size of the Dung Beetle that rolled this Huge Ball	63	Weathered to resemble a Bird Skull, a pale Promontory juts into a Lake
14	Can't shake it, but no matter what it seems to smell like Roasting Fowl here	64	Something massive was burned here: Still smells of Incense, charred Bones
15	Shallow Mouth of a Cave, bestrewn with Bones from Carnivore Kills	65	Partially Dressed Stones dot the landscape leading to an abandoned Quarry
16	Brilliant Blue Water below the rim of a Cenote, Roots and Vines dangle down	66	Magic or Labor of Thousands must have went into this long, earthen Rampart
17	Runs of rich reddish Clay race down the length of an Embankment	67	Massive Roots slither from the steep sides of this narrow Ravine
18	Seven emaciated Greybole Trees cling to the sides of a stony and sheer Cliff Face	68	A trio of almost Identical Whitemantle Pines graces a high Ridge
19	Sticking out like a sore thumb: A fluted Capital-less Column as tall as Trees	69	Few Pools remain, full of Frogspawn frantically swimming in this dry Riverbed
20	Like Fingers from a Witch's Hand, slender Crags grasp at the Clouds	70	Sinuously cutting through the land, this Rivulet flows purposefully
21	After scaling a rugged Slope, you stand upon the lip of a large Crater	71	Jumbled precariously, large remnants of a Rockslide came to rest here
22	Luxuriously furred Banks of Moss corral a Creek that meanders at a Trickle	72	Scraggly species of tall Grasses find purchase upon white Sand mounds here
23	Furrowed about a dagger-length deep, a crevice in the ground winds it's way East	73	Footing here is compromised by a jagged and loose Scree of sharp stones
24	Unceremoniously scooped by Flash Flooding perhaps, a soggy Culvert runs North	74	Only one of four dilapidated Columns still stand in this small Shrine
25	Small, secluded Hollow forms a Dell made distinctive by it's evenly spaced Trees	75	Helpful Words long faded away, a tilted Sign Post points to Parts Unknown
26	Cattails and Sawgrass sways next to a Muddy Delta where a Stream empties	76	Yawning at the Sky: a steep-walled Sinkhole at least ten Men Deep
27	Ridge of Earth and Grass, perhaps waist high, runs in a straight line to the West	77	Glistening Slime covers the large strewn Stones here in spidery trails and traces
28	Ditch just barely under an arm-span across gouged deep in the damp Soil here	78	Gradually becoming much more steep, a stone covered Slope dotted with Shrubs
29	Balefully leaning, a Dolmen, worked by ancient hands, lords over fallen companions	79	Bubbling softly, crystal clear water flows from a crack in a Cliff face
30	Erosion has taken a toll on the Land here: An Embankment Ogre High, bars the way	80	One wing Broken, an Angelic Statue is tattooed with Moss and Lichen
31	Impossibly gigantic: A Blue Snail Shell that would take ten minutes to circumvent	81	Faded Paint still clings to an Enormous Turtle Shell, once used as a Home
32	Gap-toothed and grinning: Weathered wood from a Fence that once stood here	82	Pale and Sharp Shards cleaved from larger Stones litter the ground here
33	Foul smelling Sickly Yellow Smoke seems to flow from the Fumaroles here	83	Niches carved into the Stone here each contain piles of dry and dead Flowers
34	Tan-colored Mud, and spurting plumes of water betray the Geyser activity here	84	Nose-stinging and hot, air around this bubbling black morass of Tar is stifling
35	Swallowing a Large Tree Trunk, an enormous Bee Hive sits abandoned	85	Impossibly gigantic: A Blue Snail Shell that takes ten minutes to circumvent
36	An earthen mound is dotted with the Homes of Small, angrily chirping Mammals	86	From the Bones, it would seem every Predator for miles drags their kills here
37	Steep sides, with a treacherous path down greet you with this huge Gorge	87	Most taller than a Man, sunbaked Mounds filled with termites stand proudly
38	Tree trunks tumble across a narrow Gully, some wide enough to walk across	88	Precarious mud brick/scaffolding only barely keeps this squat Tower standing
39	Slightly out of place for the surroundings, a bald-headed Hill topped with bare dirt	89	Desperate and clingy, a thicket of thorns seems to catch every scrap of cloth
40	Webs grace a dark Hollow, as tall as a Halfling, within a wide Trunk here	90	So fresh you can still see marks of Shovels in Dirt: A Trench about a Spear deep
41	Limbs and large Branches stacked together in a circular shape: A huge Nest	91	Summit of a stony ridge reveals a jagged Vale, littered with battlefield remains
42	Tufted with scraggly Grass and struggling shrubs, a sandy Hummock squats here	92	Stupendous Stonework has managed to keep this Viaduct standing for centuries
43	Windows boarded up, door hanging on hinges: A crude Hut with a shoddy Roof	93	Easily distinguished from fellows: Each of these Trees has White Trunks/Leaves
44	Only about an hour to circumvent, this little Lakelet teems with Fish	94	If all the leaves in a Forest fell at once, they'd probably produce a Pile this big.
45	Broken trunks, scattered Boulders, and clods of Earth tell of a Landslide here recently	95	Not content Underground: Roots Snake and surface like Sea Serpents
46	Hastily constructed and probably not Weather-worthy: A crude Lean-to	96	Old Axe Wounds on the Trunk here have long since scabbed over with Bark
47	Caps of Mushrooms dot a very large Graveshingle Log, each resembles a Skull	97	Antler sheds from at least four dozen Deer piled in a macabre Cairn here
48	Small, salmon colored Blossoms wave in the slightest breeze within this meadow	98	Pools/puddles seem to congregate here, each filled with tiny larval melodrama
49	Carvings long ago weathered away, a Solitary Menhir Stands...taller than 2 men	99	Only the ringed Stones remain from what appears to be a very Ancient Well
50	Channeled by determined Boulders, a Stream hesitates with Whitewater in places	100	Four parallel Furrows, big enough to lay inside: resembling huge Claw Marks

Overland Discoveries (d100)

1	Like a partially buried Egg of incredible size, the stone Dome here is remarkably smooth	51	Festooned with Mushrooms, feet of these Bloodcradles snake across the ground
2	Anchor the size of a Wyvern, brown with Rust and embedded in a Boulder	52	Forlorn Willows, tracing circles in the ground with their limbs and leaves
3	Humongous Horseshoe, four men could lay across the open end, half buried	53	From a sheer Drop, Water Cascades in a Spray, forming wriggling Rainbows
4	The Hilt of a Titanic Sword: as long as three Pikes, lies on it's side bladeless	54	Gnarled Trunk of a Wolfperch resembles it's namesake: a Slaving Canine
5	Mossy eyebrows/lichen stubble graces a gigantic Carved Stone Head	55	Gouges from Dagger-sized Claws, high on Trunks: You can barely reach them
6	Single Boot, big enough to Camp within, rests near a stand of Apple Trees	56	High overhead, a desiccated Carcass of a Game Animal droops in the branches
7	Peeking through the Earth, the glint of an impossibly large Shield: Wide as bowshot	57	Hitched and forgotten long ago, sun-bleached Mule Skeleton by a Dwarf-dye Tree
8	Circle of Stones, arrayed in an Astronomically Significant way, Dwarf-sized	58	Interrupt a Woodland Stroll? Trees here seem to have Uprooted/Moved recently
9	Bleached by decades of Sun: The Skull of a Gargantuan Horned Beast	59	Large mound of Debris, swept by flooding, obscures the feet of several Trees here
10	Serrated Tooth, tall as a Man, stands upright embedded in the earth	60	Large Pit, filled to the brim with Ashes and smoldering Charcoal
11	Cliff-side sparkles with pale-green Crystals, worthless but beautiful	61	Lichen adorned, Marble Altar, graced with a spidery crack radiating from Center
12	Boulder faceted with 14 sides and then abandoned, sinks into damp earth	62	Looking almost embarrassed, a Sugardapple has suddenly shed all their Leaves
13	Kiln must have been enormous: The cracked Amphora here is as big as a Barn	63	Massive, sturdy, knot covered Coinflower Oak: Home to very territorial Skyjays
14	Strange Calcified Webs run from surface to surface: Made of delicate Stone	64	Mossy Foundation of a small Cabin, Wood long since rotted away
15	Coppiced meticulously, some of the Strongbriar here is overdue for Harvesting	65	Orange Fungal Shelves crowd trunks of Rookshields like Staircases for Sprites
16	Ground is positively littered with fragile Fish-Scales, each the size of a Buckler	66	Overgrown Barrow, Weeds and Saplings cling precariously to the Slopes
17	Crater-like walls protect a Nest with four Petrified Eggs: Each Mule-sized	67	Petrified in place, this Barrelboon Beech Tree even has fragile Limestone Leaves
18	Bubbles ceaselessly churn near the center of this Small Lake	68	Piled higher than a Horse, a Cairn of quartz flecked Stones twinkles in the Sun
19	Water in this Mere is amazingly Clear: Can make out every twig on drowned Trees	69	Pollinators flit about a profusion of Moonwardens, scent of Soap in the air
20	Millpond Reclaimed, only fragments of a once great Wheel can be seen	70	Precariously leaning across a Gully, Ironfruit Mulberry looks like an Old Man
21	As if some great, sleeping and Spiny Beast, spires of stony Scarps form a ridge here	71	Profusion of Barbed Brambles is quick to snag Cloth and scratch Skin
22	Lagoon-like, red and sandy beaches surround this Basin	72	Remains of a Bonfire that must have been visible for miles
23	Diligent Beavers have engineered an Impressive Damn here to form a Pond	73	Resembling a Shapely Leg (Giant-Sized), this Shaderind Trunk is memorable
24	Each Tree Trunk in this stand seems almost Carved to resemble Trapped Elfs	74	Roots of this Blackcrown swell and envelop remnants of a Stone Wall
25	Regardless of Weather or Season, a Ring of Mushroom defiantly sprouts here	75	Sharpened like fat Spears by Beaver Teeth, palisade trunks where Pines stood
26	Vines bearing Boot-Shaped Gourds drape from the branches here	76	Stump, wide enough to lay across, squats defiantly among smaller neighbors
27	Ragged with Worm-rot, an old Sluice seems to crumble before your eyes	77	Sundered by a Thunderbolt ages ago, half of this Whiteshingle grows sideways
28	Terraced lovingly by a long-gone People: a Hillside overgrown with wild Grapes	78	Thick limbs of a Kingroot sag down, almost seeming to kiss the ground in places
29	Robbed of Hewn Stone in ages past, only a small part of this Tower remains	79	Through diligent Drilling: Woodpeckers stud Trunks with an Acorn Granary
30	River nowhere to be seen, an impressive stone Bridge spans a verdant Gully	80	Titanic Granite Boulder, size of a Barn and fuzzy with moss on the sunless side
31	Almost Tear-Shaped, brilliant Blue Water of this large Pond almost hurts the eyes	81	Traces of a Campfire, alongside a blackened and dented Iron Kettle
32	Patch of barren Earth, bereft of Grass, Moss, or even Pebbles, only dead Insects	82	Tree within a Tree, decaying shell of a Horsehaw splits to reveal a smaller one
33	Apparently too heavy to retrieve, a rusting Anvil tips nose down in the Earth	83	Two tall Gravescrub Rowan Trees intertwine their Trunks in a helical embrace
34	Looking for all the world like a Kind but Grinning Face, formations on a Cliff-side	84	Unsightly Blight has infested the Branches here, large Galls sprout like Boils
35	Could swear this Boulder was carved to be a Massive Nose for some Titanic Statue	85	Weeping sweet Swap as Amber Tears, the Highcover Pinyons here trap Insects
36	Although only 40 paces long: The Cyclopean stones of this Wall fit without mortar	86	What first seems to be a Small Lake, reveals itself to be an ancient Caldera
37	Pumpkin-headed Straw Effigy of a Priest, tied to the trunk of a Tree with Ribbons	87	What may have once been a Wagon or Cart, hobbled and covered in Kudzu
38	Corroded and worthless, thousands of Coins, embedded in an old, leaning Trunk	88	Wide as a Wagon, a Person could squeeze into the Hollow of the Trunk here
39	Solitary Tombstone, carvings long since faded, but still embellished with small stones	89	Hundreds of Broken Bottles, strewn in a small ditch, green glass glimmering
40	Rotting wooden Fence stops here, completion abandoned several years ago	90	Canopy of Trees here is charred and burnt, filling the air with the scent of smoke
41	A Cartchoke Oak bulges around the rusting rings of a long disintegrated Barrel	91	Caked halfway up Trunks of most Trees, ochre colored Mud from a recent Flood
42	Abandoned ages ago, but still impressive: A giant Nest consumes most of a Canopy	92	Skeletons of small Creatures adorn the Barbs on all the Swordwoe Bushes here
43	Bark stripped, and heartwood bleaching, these Foolgown Beeches were savaged	93	Dwarfing all other Trees, a Colossal Towerden Oak surveys the lay of the land
44	Bowled over by High Winds, clods of rich soil cling to Roots of leaning Trees	94	Studded with 1,000s of Rusting Nails, a Tree Trunk seems no worse for wear
45	Bubbling the stones smooth, a Brook meanders it's way between Fern-covered outcrops	95	Placed high on a Wooden Pole: A Flensed Bear Skull grimaces from it's perch
46	Colonies of Knitworms have woven their little homes around each leaf in the Canopy	96	Dotting a Clearing are smoldering Charcoal Clamps, minders nowhere to be seen
47	Crumbling Archway, ornate carvings worn by wind and rain	97	Winding on itself to form an Oxbow Lake, a fish leaps from a relaxed River
48	Dense Bracken, some drooping to the height of an Ogre, showering spores	98	Riddled with Fossilized Shells of ancient Sea Creatures, a chalky Limestone Bluff
49	Dozens of Dark Burrows dot the Ground here, their Diggers nowhere to be Seen	99	Statue of a Sleeping Figure, on crudely carved Throne, littered with shells of Nuts
50	Enormous Log, hollowed with Decay, and large enough for a Dwarf to stand in	100	Quakepetal Bushes seem to teem with Bees and Butterflies all year round